READING PEOPLE'S MOOD

When we read people's moods, we use their clues to tell how they feel. We look at their facial expressions, body language, and listen to their tone of voice to see how they feel.

Read each scenario below and tell how the person might be feeling. Do they like talking about this particular subject?

Liza asks Mike about his vacation. He smiles and starts telling her about it with lots of details.

Drew was telling Smith about a text from Sarah but when other people came over he got really quiet.

---

Daphne was inviting Kim to her house. Katie sat down with them and Daphne said "I'll tell you more later."

---

Luke asked Tim if he could explain the biology homework. Tim sat up straighter and started talking really fast.
